C. F. Neagle, of Lexington, sold to C. B. McCormick, a wealthy banker of Salt Lake City, Utah, a team of carriage horses, trotting bred, which can show a mile in 2:25. The price paid was $3,600.

Sheriff Henry Bosworth, of Lexington, has sold a five-year-old roan gelding by Margrave, dam by Ellerslie Wilkes, to W. H. P. Martin, of Greenwich, Conn., for $1,500. This gelding is a trotter and won the $100 cup for roadsters at the late Elks Fair.

Frank Currant, of this county, will send ten head of horses to the Lexington track this week.

A most remarkable incident was witnessed during the course of the Glens Falls meeting. N. J. Cassidy, of Denver, is minus a right arm and leg, yet he drove Raymond M. to victory in the 2:09 class pacing. He drove with the reins over his head, using his head and neck to guide the horse when he had occasion to use the whip.

WOMAN'S RELIEF

A really healthy woman has little pain or discomfort at the menstrual period. No woman needs to have any. Wine of Cardui will quickly relieve those smarting menstrual pains and the dragging head, back and side aches caused by falling of the womb and irregular menses.

THROUGH COLORADO.—The Denver & Rio Grande Railroad, with its numerous branches penetrating the Rockies, has two distinct and separate lines across the mountains. Tickets reading via the "Scenic Line" between Grand Junction, in connection with the Rio Grande Western Ry. between Grand Junction and Ogden, are available over the Denver & Rio Grande, either via its main line through Leadville and Glenwood Springs, or via the line over Marshall Pass and through the Black Canon. Tourists to and from Salt Lake City, Ogden or San Francisco will find it to their advantage to have their tickets read in both directions, via "The Scenic Line of the World," thus being able to use one of the above routes going and the other returning. Write to S. K. Hooper, G. P. & T. A., Denver, Colo., for illustrated pamphlets. 31jy-tf

MR. GEORGE W. DAVIS lost a valuable horse Wednesday, one of the pair which was driven to the hearse. Mr. Davis had rented his large furniture wagon to several members of the Red Men's Order to drive over to George town. On the return, when about seven miles from Georgetown, the horse suddenly whined and fell to the ground and was dead in a moment. Mr. Davis lost another valuable horse in a similar manner about a year ago. The occupants of the wagon on Wednesday night are still arriving in installments.

VACATION.—For your summer outing allow us to suggest Colorado, famous the world over for its cool and invigorating climate, magnificent mountain scenery and picturesque summer resorts, which are located along the line of the Denver and Rio Grande Railroad. "The Scenic Line of the World." Very low excursion rates and "Circle" tour tickets are on sale during summer month, via this line, to all the principal points of interest. The Denver & Rio Grande with its numerous branches penetrating the great State of Colorado, has 37 different "Circle" tours through the Rocky Mountains, one of which in particular is the famous 1,000 mile tour for $28, which comprises more noted scenery than any similar trip in the world, passing the following points of interest: La Veta Pass, Poncha Pass, Toltec Gorge, Indian Reservations, Durango, Mancos Canon, Rico, Lizard Head Pass, or Las Animas Canon, Silverton, Ouray, Cimarron Canon, Black Canon of the Gunnison, Marshall Pass and the Royal Gorge. This trip can be comfortably made in five days, but at least ten days ought to be devoted to it, so as one may leisurely inspect the principal sights. Very low rates are also on sale to Salt Lake City, Utah. If you contemplate a trip through Colorado or Utah, let us send you some beautifully illustrated booklets, free. S. K. Hooper, G. P. & T. CHAPTER I.

THE WORLD NEEDS LOVE.

"At the same time, Richard," said Mrs. Richard Ward, anxiously, "it comes back to the old question: What are we to do? You know I am not strong enough to keep house alone. We can't afford to break up our home and go into a hotel, and yet it seems almost the only thing left to do. What shall we do?"

"I don't understand why all our girls stay so short a time!" exclaimed Mr. Ward, irritably. And then he looked across the table at his wife, and his look softened a little as he noted more carefully her tired face and the traces of tears on her cheeks.

"Oh, I don't understand it! All I know is that they are all simply horrid. I do everything for them and never get anything but ingratitude from every one of them! The idea of Maggie leaving me to-day of all the days, just when Aunt Wilson was coming, and Alfred home from college, and Lewis down with his accident; it is more than I can bear, Richard. If you were any sort of a man, you would know what to do!"

"Well, I am any sort of a man, and I don't know in the least what to do," replied Mr. Richard Ward to himself, as his wife laid her head down on the table, regardless of several dishes overturned, and broke into sobs as a relief to her feelings which had been growing in hysterical power ever since Maggie, the hired girl, had that morning not only given notice of her departure but had actually left, after a brief but heated discussion about the housework in the Ward family.

The two children at the table turned frightened looks first at the father and then at the mother, and the youngest of them began to cry.

"Stop that, Carl!" exclaimed Mr. Ward, sharply. Then, as he pushed back his plate with the food on it untouched, he muttered to himself: "I'm losing all my Christianity over this miserable hired-girl business. It's breaking up our home life and wrecking the joy of our very children."

The child's lip curled in a piteous effort at control and the older one began eating again, looking from father to mother anxiously.

Mr. Ward rose, and, going over to his wife, he sat down by her and stroked her head gently.

"There, Martha, you are all worn out. Just go into the sitting-room and lie down. George and I will do the dishes, won't we, George? We'll play hired girl to-night, won't we?"

"Let me help, too!" cried Carl.

"Yes, you can help, too. Finish your supper, and we'll have a jolly time washing and wiping. Now, Martha, you go in and lie down. We'll get things straightened out somehow."

Mrs. Ward feebly protested, but allowed her husband to lead her into the sitting-room, where she sank down on a lounge.

"I've got a splitting headache, Richard; leave the dishes until morning. You're tired with your business."

"No, I don't like to see them lying around. Besides, dirty dishes have a way of growing with miraculous rapidity when the girl's gone and things go to pieces like this," he said, with a lapse into irritation again.

"It's not my fault!" exclaimed Mrs. Ward, sharply. "Carl, stop that noise," she added as Carl began to gather up some of the dishes, piling the biggest plates on the little ones and letting several knives and forks clatter to the floor in his eagerness to help.

"Don't be always nagging the children, Martha!" said Mr. Ward, angrily, losing his temper for the tenth time that evening. The other times he had lost it silently.

"It's always: 'Stop that noise!' from mother when her head aches," said George as he tried to pick up the knives and forks quietly, and let them drop twice before he had them back on the table.

"See me help! See me help!" sung Carl as he started towards the kitchen door with his arms full of dishes. The pile was too heavy for his strength; and, as he neared the door the column began to topple, it balanced for a moment on the edge of safety, and then fell with a crash. The child looked at the ruin a moment in terrified silence, then sat down on the floor and began to cry.

Mrs. Ward sat up on the lounge and looked at her husband almost savagely.

"Richard Ward, if you don't do something to change all this—"

She did not finish her sentence, but lay down and turned her face to the wall in despair. And Richard Ward, of the firm of Mead, Ward and Company, known in business circles as a good, agreeable, and fairly successful merchant, and in church circles as a consistent member and active Christian man, turned from his wife and went out into the dining-room with a look on his face that his minister had never seen, and a feeling in his heart that was a good way from being what might be expected in a man who was "in good and regular standing" in the Marble Square church.

"It would be very funny, if it were not so near a tragedy," he said to himself as he picked up the broken dishes while the two boys looked on. "It would be comical, if it were not so miserably serious in its effects on our home life. Here I am doing the dirty, common work of the kitchen, I, Richard Ward, the dignified, well-to-do member of the firm of Mead, Ward and Company, all because of this girl, who—"

He did not finish the sentence even to himself, but went on with the work of clearing the table, making the two boys sit down in a corner of the dining-room while he did the work. When he had carried everything out, he let the children go out into the kitchen with him, while he carefully shut the door into the dining-room and then proceeded to "do up" the dishes, letting George help, and finally, in answer to the younger boy's plea, allowing him to carry some of the indestructible dishes into the pantry.

"It's fun, isn't it, papa?" said Carl, as the last dish was wiped and the towels hung up.

"Great fun," replied Mr. Ward, grimly.

"Father means it isn't," said George, with a superior wisdom.

"Anyhow, I think it's fun. Only I don't like the old girls. They make mamma feel bad. Do they make you feel bad, papa?"

"Yes, my son, they do," replied Mr. Ward, as he sat down in one of the old kitchen chairs and took his younger son into his lap. And, if the truth were told, if his two small sons had not been present, it is possible Mr. Richard Ward might actually have shed tears over the constantly recurring tragedy of the "hired girl" as it had been acted in various forms in his own household during the last five years since they had moved into the city and his wife's health begun to break down from household cares.

"And yet I don't understand these women," he said to himself, as he sat there in the kitchen, his chin on the little boy's head, while George perched on the kitchen table gravely observant. "We have everything in the world to do with. Our family is not very large. Martha is kind, and gives the girls very many favors. We pay good wages and are ready to put up with many kinds of incompetency, and yet we don't seem to be able to keep any sort of a girl more than three months at a time. It is breaking up our home life. It is simply absurd that I should be doing this kitchen work, but Martha isn't well, and there's breakfast to get and all the work after it."

He thought of his wife in the other room on the lounge and was filled with remorse for her.

"I was a brute to talk to her so sharply," he said, out loud.

"Brutes don't talk," said George, from his elevated post on the table, speaking from knowledge gained in a study of natural history given him by his Aunt Wilson.

"Some of them do. The two-legged ones," replied his father. And he rose, and with the boys went into the sitting-room.

"DID UP THE DISHES WITH GEORGE'S HELP."

They found that Mrs. Ward had gone upstairs in answer to a call from Lewis, the oldest boy of the family, at home, who had broken his arm the week before while engaged in sport at school.

The duty of putting the two younger lads to bed devolved upon the father. He performed the duty without much heart in it. His wife was silent and in no mood for reconciliation. When Carl said his usual prayer, he added: "And bless Maggie, because she is so bad, and has wandered far from the fold," repeating a phrase he had heard at Sunday school the week before. And Mr. Ward listened with anything but a love of mankind in his heart, wondering whether he ought not to be included in the child's petition, esteemed church member though he might be in the eyes of those who did not see into his home life.

In the morning he faced a tired, listless, discouraged wife, sitting opposite him at a breakfast which had been prepared with his help, under protest, and with a spirit of nervous depression that from experience he knew well enough meant a miserable day at home.

He rose from the table with a really desperate feeling, saying again to himself: "It would be funny, if it were not so tragic."

"I'll try to find some one, Martha," he said, feebly, as he put on his hat.

"I don't care whether you do or not," she answered, indifferently.

He was tempted to grow angry, but checked himself.

"I'll advertise. I'm tired of sending to the agencies."

His wife did not answer.

"We'll do the best we can, Martha. There must be some competent girl in this city somewhere."

"If there is, we never found one," Mrs. Ward answered sharply.

He wisely declined to discuss the question, and started to go out.

"I'll not be at home to lunch," he said, putting his head in at the door.

There was no answer, and he slowly shut the door and started for his car at the next corner; and, of the many burdened, perplexed hearts carried into the city that morning, it is doubtful whether any out of all the number was more burdened than that of Mr. Richard Ward, of the firm of Mead, Ward and Company.

He sent in to three of the leading evening papers a carefully worded advertisement asking for a competent servant, and took up his day's work with its usual routine without the least expectation that any reply would come from his advertisements. It would, therefore, have given him a peculiar sense of interest in the future, if at about six o'clock that evening, as he went out of his office and with strange reluctance started for his home, he could have seen in a house not two blocks from his own a young woman eagerly reading the advertisement and talking to an older woman in a strangely subdued, but at the same time positive, manner concerning it.

"Barbara, what you say is impossible! It is so strange that no one but yourself would ever have thought of it. You must give up any such plan."

The young woman listened thoughtfully, holding a newspaper in her hand; and, as she looked up from it, the older woman had finished.

"At the same time, mother, will you tell me something better to do?"

"There are a thousand things. Anything except this."

"But what, mother? I have tried for everything. Our friends' (her lip curled a little as she said the word) 'have all tried. No one seems to need me unless it is this family. Here seems to be a real need. It will be unselfish, mother, don't you think, to do something to fill a real demand, instead of always begging for a chance to make a living somewhere?'"

She took up the paper and read the advertisement slowly.

"Wanted—A competent girl to do general housework. A good cook, able to take charge of the housekeeping for a family of five. American girl preferred. Good wages. Apply at once to Richard Ward, No. 30 Hamilton street."

"I call it a good opening, mother. And it's only two blocks from here. And I seem to fill all the requirements. I am 'competent.' I am a 'good cook.' I am an 'American girl.' And I am able to 'apply at once' because I have nothing else to do. So I do not see why I should not walk right over and secure the place before some one else gets it."

She rose from her seat, and the mother turned an appealing face towards her.

"Barbara! you shall do no such crazy thing. At least, you shall not with my consent. It is madness for you to throw yourself away! To think of my daughter becoming a 'hired girl!' Barbara, it is cruel of you even to suggest it. It is a part of your college foolishness. You have been jesting with me."

"No, mother, dear, I have not." Barbara walked over to where her mother had been sitting, and knelt down by her, putting her hands in her mother's hands, and looking affectionately up to her.

"No, mother, I am not jesting. I am very much in earnest. Look at me! Barbara Clark, age 21; graduate Mount Holyoke. Member of church and Christian Endeavor society. Plenty of good health. No money. Educated for a teacher. No influence with the powers that be to secure a position. At home, dependent on a burden to—here Mrs. Clark put a hand on the speaker's mouth and Barbara gently removed the hand—"a burden to a good mother who has no means besides a small legacy, daily growing smaller, and the diminutive interest on an insurance fund that is badly invested in western land. There's my biography up to date. Do you wonder that I want to be doing something to be making some money, even if it is only a little, to be a breadwinner, even if—"

"But to be a 'hired girl,' Barbara! Do you realize what it means? Why, it means social loss, it means dropping out of the circle of good society, it means daily drudgery of the hardest kind, it means going to the bottom of the ladder, and always staying there! And you, Barbara, of all girls, fitted to teach, an exceptionally good student, bright and capable. O, how does it happen that girls who are your inferiors have secured good positions and you have not succeeded?"

"Pulls," said Barbara, briefly.

Mrs. Clark looked troubled. "Is that college slang?"

"No, mother. Political. I mean that the other girls have had influence. If father were alive—"

"Ah, Barbara, if your father were living, there would be no talk of your going to work in a kitchen. And you shall not go, either. It is the height of absurdity to think of it."

"But, mother," Barbara began, after a moment's silence, "do you realize the facts, the plain, homely facts, of our existence? Every day you are drawing on Uncle Will's legacy, and next month's rent and grocery bill will eat a large hole in it. I have been a whole year at home, living in idleness, and eating my bread in bitterness because I could see the end coming. There is no one who is in any way bound to help us. Why should I let a false pride keep me from doing honest labor of the hand? And there is more of it than you imagine, mother dear. It takes more than a low order of intellect to manage the affairs of a family as a housekeeper, doesn't it?"

Mrs. Clark did not answer, and Barbara went on: "You know, mother, I made a special study in college of social economics. The application of those principles to a real, live problem had great fascination for me. Now, the hired-girl problem in this country is a real, live, social and economic problem. Why shall I not be able to do as much real service to society and the home life of America by entering service as a hired girl and studying it from the inside, as if I went into a schoolroom like other school-ma'ams, to teach? I love adventure. Why not try this? No one knows how much I might be able to do for humanity socially as a hired girl!"

Mrs. Clark looked at her daughter again with that questioning look of doubt which she often felt when Barbara spoke in a certain way. It was not the girl's habit to treat any subject flippantly. She was talking with great seriousness now, and yet there were ideas in what she said that her mother could not in the least understand.

SCARING THE LIONS.

Fierce Forest Kings Driven Off by Imitating the Cries of a Pack of Wolves.

M. Foa, the French explorer, says that lions have a wholesome fear of African wolves, which hunt in packs, and do not scruple to attack even the lion. There are terrible battles in which the lion succumbs to numbers, and dies fighting. In connection with the lion's fear of wolves M. Foa tells a story from his own experience.

It was a very dark night, so dark that trees could not be distinguished until the travelers were close upon them. Lions prowled about the party, one of them roaring from a point so close as to have an alarming effect on the nerves. The animals could not be seen, but they could be heard on all sides.

Reaching a tree, the men found one of their comrades with rifle cocked, peering into the darkness, trying to discover the whereabouts of the animal, which could be plainly heard walking among the leaves. A second man was trying to relight a half-extinguished torch. Still the lions could be heard coming and going in the darkness.

At this point the native servant whispered the advice to imitate the cry of wolves in the distance. The party at once began barking and crying: "Hi! hi! hi!" in an undertone, as if the pack were still at a distance, while the man at the camp made the same well-imitated cry.

The effect was instantaneous. There was the sound of a rapid stampede across the dry leaves. The lions decamped in a panic, driven off by the supposed approach of a pack of wolves. For the rest of the night the party was undisturbed.

Hard Struggles of a Noted Jurist.

Judge Willis, lecturing recently on "My Personal Reminiscences," told a large audience that instead of being reared in the lap of luxury, and sent to Oxford or Cambridge, as some people imagined, he had passed six years in business before he was 21 years of age, doing every kind of work that came within his daily calling. In a basement he had entered $8,000 worth of bonnets, hats and ribbons in one day, and for nights in succession heard the bells of St. Paul's strike 12 as he turned out to walk three miles to his house. On leaving school at 15 he studied Latin and Greek and afterward matriculated in London university in the first division. A year later, in 1858, he passed into the inner temple and began the study of law. With the exception of £100 a year he received for his maintenance and for books, his education for the law cost about £10; as they could attend all the best lectures at the inner temple for £5 per annum. He secured his B. A. degree in 1859, and in the next year, having read law day and night without anyone to help him, he came out in the examination first.—Chicago Record-Herald.

A Scotch Dialogue.

In a dull Scotch village, on a dull morning, one neighbor called upon another. He was met at the door by his friend's wife, and the dialogue went thus:

"Cauid?"

"Aye. Gaen to be weety (rainy), I think."

"Aye. Is John in?"

"Oh, aye, he's in."

"Can I see him?"

"No."

"But I wanted to see him."

"Aye, but you canna see him—John's deid."

"Deid?"

"Aye."

"Sudden?"

"Aye."

"Very sudden?"

"Very sudden."

"Did he say anything about a pot of green paint before he deid?"—Ian MacLaren, in British Weekly.

Notice.

To Policy Holders in Old Line Companies: Beware of the confidence game played by the pious Insurance Agent, who wants to do you the favor of switching you from your company to his. All companies write numerous plans of insurance and every plan costs a different price. You get value received for any plan you buy, from any Old Line Company. When the confidence man shows you a plan differing from the one you have, which is part of the game, and should you prefer this particular plan write to the Agent or Company who insured you and get it, and thereby save what you paid. Don't be an easy mark. There are millions of dollars lost each year by policyholders being duped by confidence men.

LIKE HEAVEN.

When you hear of good in people—tell it.
When you hear a tale of evil—quell it.
Let the goodness have the light,
Put the evil out of sight.
Make the world we live in bright,
Like to Heaven above.

You must have a work to do—pursue it.
If a failure, try again—renew it.
Failure spurs us to success,
Failures come, but come to bless,
Fitting us for righteousness,
In the Heaven above.

Do the woes of life surround you—face them.
Do temptations hover 'round you—chase them.

He who ruleth over all,
He will help you, though you fall,
Gladly hears you when you call,
From His Heaven above.

Have you any wrong to right—right it.
Do you have a sin to fight—fight it.
God, Himself, will help you win,
Let His Spirit enter in,
Making right the heart within,
Fitting for Heaven above.

LIONS AND AN AUTOMOBILE

By B. C. Brigham.

IT is greatly in favor of the automobile in South Africa that it is not subject to the fatal "horse sickness," or to the ravages of the tsetse-fly. As yet, however, horseless carriages are not very numerous there. One of the first was brought into the country by a young English ranchman, named Albert Hill.

In addition to its tank a 20-gallon can of gasoline or oil was transported, which for a time added materially to the weight of the outfit. Hill himself, however, weighed not more than 116 pounds; and his entire outfit, excluding fuel, was kept down to less than 50 pounds. The young ranchman possessed the nimbleness which is one of the advantages of light weight, and this agility stood him in good stead, as will be seen.

There were rivers and creeks to be crossed where there were no bridges. Hill's method in these exigencies was to wade across in advance, and pull the automobile over with a line.

A little after sunset one evening, while he was passing beneath some mahoe-trees, a leopard attempted to drop upon him, but miscalculated his speed and landed in the road behind. The animal was so much disgusted, either with its ill-success, or with the gaseous odor of the machine, that it sneaked away without further effort to molest the ranchman.

At another time, while he was passing a swamp which the road skirted, a buffalo charged out after him. For 50 yards it was nearly a drawn race, when the motor-carriage showed the better speed and pulled away.

These, however, were but unimportant incidents, soon over; the real adventure of the trip befell Hill after entering Mashonaland. He was now in a tract of country which was remote from settlers' ranches. At a little past noon one day he was crossing a kind of grassy marsh. In the wet season such depressions are shallow lakes, the shores of which are marked by an irregular fringe of m'pame trees. The road was here merely a trail over the beaten-down grass, but there were neither stones nor logs to obstruct the traveler; and the Little Ajax, as Hill called his small motor-carriage, was puffing forward at a fair rate of speed and approaching the fringe of wood.

Suddenly the underbrush immediately ahead teemed with antlered heads, and the next moment the solitary scout found himself in the midst of a herd of duiker-bok, not fleeing from him, but rushing upon him, running madly out into the open marsh. As many as 200 of the animals dashed by him as he was passing through the thin fringe of trees.

In his astonishment at this unexpected stampede, Hill did not, for the moment, reflect that the cause of it must be near at hand; but the cause disclosed itself promptly. Not 40 yards away stood a number of large lions that had evidently been stalking the duiker-bok. He had hardly taken in this startling sight, when he heard a tremendous roar a little way to the left, and saw another lion even bigger than the others that had just killed a buck, and was standing over its prey.

There was no time to unstrap his cabin, no time for anything. The instinct which prompts the locomotive driver, when he sees a head-on collision coming, to shut off and jump, led Hill to give one convulsive shove at the steering lever and leap clear of the vehicle. His idea was to get into the fringe of timber and climb a tree; but he had already passed most of the trees. The nearest was a large old trunk that had fallen partly over and lay at an angle of 45 degrees or less, its top lodged in another smaller tree which had arrested its fall, and acted as a prop to hold it up. He made a dash for this inclined tree, and ran up 15 or 20 feet to where a large branch rose vertically. Twisting his body nimbly around this branch, Hill glanced back to see what the lions were doing.

Likely for him, they were being entertained by the motor-carriage. The machine was still going, and seemed fully to occupy their attention as new and very dubious sort of game. The movements of the little automobile were somewhat laughable. The hard shove to left which Hill had given the steering handle caused the machine to describe a vagrant circuit out on the veld beyond the trees. There were thorn-bushes, thin, dry grass and numbers of stones in the open; but the Little Ajax was accustomed to such obstructions, and waddled its way merrily over them, describing a circle and coming round again, as if looking for its master and loath to leave him behind.

The lions were clearly mystified, alike from what they saw, heard and smelled. They backed off and came round in the rear of the machine, eyeing it with doubt and disfavor. When it turned they doubled to the rear of it again; and the big lion with the buck, when he saw it coming in his direction, seized his prey in his mouth, and with an angry growl bounded off out of the track of the queer monstrosity. Then he stood up and roared again.

Two of the other lions were not fully grown. Apparently they did not quite dare to spring upon the lifelike yet malodorous creature, but kept following it, charging close up behind it at one moment, then falling back.

The other larger lions or lionesses squatted at a distance in the grass and watched it.

Stones and bushes were constantly deflecting the direction of the motor-carriage; and before long it ran into another larger bush, or clump of bushes, that brought it to a standstill, although it continued puffing and pushing at the obstruction.

For some time the lions watched it, but grew listless or indifferent to the performance, and went out toward the black-maned lion with the buck.

He was not disposed to divide with them, and greeted their approach with menacing growls. All four then squatted down to watch him with snarls and envious looks, and Hill now made the mistake of thinking that he might get down and possess himself of his car-bine—as he would have to go no more than 150 feet, and the lions were now three times that distance away.

He fancied that the gyrations of the automobile had caused them to forget him, if, indeed, they had ever really noticed his escape.

But descending the inclined tree-trunk slowly proved a more difficult feat than running up rapidly; when part way down he slipped and slid to the ground, making some noise. Regaining his feet as nimbly as possible, he glanced hastily toward the lions—only to see to his dismay that one of the two young ones had heard or seen him and was bounding toward him; also that the other three had started up and were about to follow.

Nothing remained for it but to make a dash back up the slanting tree-trunk. When about half-way up he nearly lost his foothold, and barely saved himself from tumbling back.

The lion was close upon him. With an ugly growl it attempted to ascend the tree-trunk, and thrust up a paw with extended nails; but it lost its footing and fell into the dry grass below. A moment later it dashed up the trunk again, but was not agile enough to pass the obstructing upright branch, behind which Hill was sheltering himself.

The lion clung, however, growling and snarling with one paw clasped around the branch. Hill could have retreated farther into the top of the tree, but he feared the lion might work its body around the branch and effect a lodgment in the top itself. He had a strong pocketknife, and cutting a smaller limb for a club, struck the lion so stiff a blow with it that the animal, uttering a roar, fell to the ground.

Infuriated by the blow, the beast instantly charged up a third time; but Hill had now secured a good hold with his left hand, and dealt such blows with his club on the brute's head and paws that again it leaped to the ground, roaring and snarling with baffled rage. Its outcries incited the others to make an attack; and amidst a horrible chorus of roars and growls, first one, then another, and soon two or three at a time came charging up the tree-trunk. Only one, however, could approach the difficult point of passage around the upright branch; and whenever a paw was thrust above the branch, Hill hammered it with the club so vigorously as nearly to crush it.

Two of the lions were already bleeding at the nose, and all four appeared to have had enough of the effort to scale the tree-trunk; but they had become wrought up to such a state of fury that Hill had little hope that they would leave the place that night.

A fresh expedient presently suggested itself, however; Hill had matches in his pocket, and gathering wads of dry bark or moss from the tree-trunk, he ignited them and then dropped them into the dry grass under the tree. Soon a ring of fire and smoke began to spread. The four lions finally made off through the fringe of trees, and soon Hill saw the one that had killed the duiker-bok bounding away with the carcass in its mouth.

Although far from certain that the lions would not return and attack him, Hill was forced to descend and run to the automobile before the fire reached it, lest there might be an explosion of his fuel tank and cartridges.

The Little Ajax was still puffing away at the obstructing bush, all ready to go when released. Hill's first thought was his carbine; but the fire was close upon the machine, and after a single glance about him through the smoke, he backed out of the bush and went on at speed. The lions did not pursue him.—Youth's Companion.

Her Charm for the Boys.

"Just see! They act like grown-up men," whispered the woman on the excursion boat, calling her friend's attention to three small boys who were admiringly eyeing a dainty young woman wearing a waist of such flimsy open work that arms, neck and shoulders were all on view. But the woman did not understand boy nature. From where she was sitting the woman who thought she was shocked couldn't see what the boys saw. It was the picture of a cavalier, with drawn sword, on the liveliest kind of a horse, beautifully tattooed on the dainty young woman's arm.—N. Y. Sun.

SYSTEM OF IDENTIFICATION.

Capt. Kulp, Assistant Army Surgeon, Suggests a Simpler Method for Use in the Army.

An army medical officer criticizes the method of military identification in vogue at all recruiting depots as cumbersome, costly and expensive as to time. Capt. John S. Kulp, assistant surgeon, on duty in New York city, suggests that the recruit, stripped, be placed before a big chart with arms outstretched, and there photographed. This will enable the plotting of every linear measurement of the body of the recruit.

The apparatus required for the system consists of a sheet of muslin 6½ feet square, stamped in figures, and having a black space on it for the recording of the name and age of the recruit, name of examining surgeon, and date of examination, and a camera which, for the sake of uniform results, should have a fixed focus.

The photographs, Capt. Kulp suggests, should be filed at the war department and indexed, to permit reference and comparison on occasion.

The progress made in photography makes it possible for photographs to be taken on paper which do not require developing, toning, or the fixing of baths, all that is necessary being immersion in water.

Capt. Kulp believes that the present system is one which means a great loss of time in a period of war, and that the system he suggests would accomplish all that the present methods do.

EXPLORED WILDS OF BORNEO.

Dr. A. W. Nieuwenhuis, Medical Commissioner of Dutch Army in Java, Returns from Expedition.

Dr. A. W. Nieuwenhuis, a medical commissioner of the Dutch army in Java, has arrived at San Francisco on his way to Holland. He has been exploring the wilds of Borneo and in traveling from the west to the east coast of that country he says he has done what no white man has ever done before. On his expedition he had three white men and three natives. He won the friendship of the Dyak tribes in the interior by curing many of them of malaria by the use of quinine and they rendered him valuable assistance. He found the natives very superstitious, though well disposed toward white men. The party made valuable collections of animals and plant life and gathered many geological specimens. Dr. Nieuwenhuis has submitted many recommendations to the Dutch civil officers at Batavia for the extension of Dutch governmental authority to the interior of Borneo.

Fortune for a Violinist.

Manager Daniel Frohman has engaged Johann Kubelik, the young Bohemian violinist, for a tour of the United States, to commence in December of this year. The contract guarantees a sufficient number of concerts to make the returns to the virtuoso $100,000. Kubelik is the son of an amateur musician of Mielie, near Prague, who is in business as a market gardener. He is 21 years old. His musical studies were followed at the Prague conservatory. All over the continent of Europe and in England his playing has created a sensation. He is likened to Paganini, having an extraordinary technical facility.

Kaiser Is Growing a Beard.

Emperor William is letting his beard grow, says the Berlin correspondent of the London Daily Mail. His mustache is no longer of the straight, stiff shape hitherto so familiar. The points are loose, and the soft, growing beard gives him a striking resemblance to his father.

MADE STRONG AND WELL.

A Prominent Lady Raised From a Sick Bed by Pe-ru-na—Entirely Cured in Two Weeks.

MRS. E. A. CROZIER.

Mrs. E. A. Crozier, Senior Vice President of the James Morgan Post, W. H. C., the largest corps in Minnesota, writes from "The Landover," 9th and Nicollet, Minneapolis, Minn., as follows:

"Please accept hearty thanks on behalf of Peruna, that wonderful medicine which raised me from a sick bed and made a strong and well woman of me in two weeks. I suffered with bearing-down pains, backache and continual headache, and found no relief until I tried Peruna. It cured me completely, and I feel as young and well as when 18. I wish every woman knew the merits of the medicine, and no home would be without it."—Mrs. E. A. Crozier.

Mrs. William Henderson, Bordulac, N. C., writes:

"I was troubled with very serious female weakness; had spells of flowing that exhausted me so that I feared I would lose my mind. I suffered untold agony with my back, the pain extending down my left leg. My pain was so severe that I would have welcomed death at any moment—so no one need wonder that I recommend Peruna so highly, for it cured me entirely of that. Not a sign of pain has returned, and that will soon be two years now."

"I am glad that there is a way I can speak, trusting that many a sufferer will read my testimonial, and not only read but believe."—Mrs. Wm. Henderson.

The Political Horizon.

The political horizon is considerably cloudier than it was last Tuesday when The News announced the overruling of the City Committee's action in declaring the election of July 3d void. On Wednesday morning Mr. James O'Brien delivered to Messrs. Russell Mann, Lyt. Purnell, Neville Fisher and Albert Rice, a little billet doux from T. T. Hedger, Chairman of the Seventh District, telling them that their services as City Committeemen were no longer needed. Each of the four Committeemen received the notice, the following being the one received by Mr. Purnell:

ROGERS GAP, KY., Aug. 20, 1901.

L. B. Purnell, Esq.,

Paris, Ky.

Sir:—You have this day been removed as Democratic Committeeman from Paris Precinct No. 3, and an election has been ordered for the purpose of filling your place as the party law requires.

T. T. HEDGER,

Dem. State Central Committee-man,

Seventh District.

Previous to the receipt of this bouncing notice the Committee held a meeting and passed the following resolutions: "Be it ordered by the Democratic Committee of the City of Paris that the contest in the case of James McClure, etc., vs. D. C. Parrish, etc., shall serve a notice of the contest, if any, upon the contestants, and file a copy of the same with this committee by 6 o'clock p. m. August 23d, 1901."

"That at 9 o'clock a. m. August 23d, this committee meet and count the ballots, and the Secretary of this Committee is instructed to procure the keys to the ballot boxes and have them on hand at the said meeting of this committee."

It was also moved and seconded and carried that at the contest each side be allowed to be represented by an attorney. The Committee then adjourned to meet on Friday, August, 23.

And then comes Allie Young, who is chairman of the entire State Central Committee, and telephones to the City Committee that Mr. Hedger, who is only Chairman of the Seventh District part of the Committee, had no right to issue a notice removing the Committeemen, and orders them to go ahead and hold the contest. In compliance with this a notice was served upon the contestants that the contest would proceed, and there you are.

Things have come to such a pass that our citizens are beginning to ask where they are at. We have two school board, two councils, and came pretty near having two Police Judges and two Mayors. Lost Hair

"My hair came out by the handful, and the gray hairs began to creep in. I tried Ayer's Hair Vigor, and it stopped the hair from coming out and restored the color."—Mrs. M. D. Gray, No. Salem, Mass.

There's a pleasure in offering such a preparation as Ayer's Hair Vigor. It gives to all who use it such satisfaction. The hair becomes thicker, longer, softer, and more glossy. And you feel so secure in using such an old and reliable preparation.

One of the best equipped tonsorial establishments in the State is that of Carl Crawford on Main street, adjoining the Bourbon Bank. It is the only barber shop in the city employing white barbers exclusively, and the best service is given at all times. A first class bath room in connection with the shop is greatly appreciated by its patrons. Everything possible is done for the convenience and comfort of the patrons.

You Do, or You Don't Need Glasses

The eye being a rather delicate organ, great care should be exercised in the selection of proper glasses. Many believe that glasses should be restored to only when the sight becomes so defective as not to be able to do without. This is a great mistake which must be combatted. Whenever there is unmistakable evidence of the need of their aid, they should be used. A neglect of this rule sometimes produces mischief which results in serious trouble if the course be persisted in.

Does It Pay To Buy Cheap?

A cheap remedy for coughs and colds is all right, but you want something that will relieve and cure the more severe and dangerous results of throat and lung troubles. What shall you do? Go to a warmer and more regular climate? Yes, if possible; if not possible for you, then in either case take the ONLY remedy that has been introduced in all civilized countries with severe throat and lung troubles. "Boschee's German Syrup." It not only heals and stimulates the tissues to destroy the germ disease, but allays inflammation, causes easy expectoration, gives good night's rest, and cures the patient. Try one bottle. Recommended many years by all druggists in the world. Get Green's Prize Almanac.—W. T. Brooks.

Question Answered.

Yes August Flower still has the largest sale of any medicine in the civilized world. Your mothers and grandmothers never thought of using anything else for Indigestion or Biliousness. Doctors were scarce, and they seldom heard of Appendicitis, Nervous Prostration or Heart failure, etc. They used August Flower to clean out the system and stop fermentation of undigested food, regulate the action of the liver, stimulate the nervous and organic action of the system, and that is all they took when feeling dull with headaches and other aches. You only need a few doses of Green's August Flower, in liquid form, to make you satisfied that there is nothing serious the matter with you. Get Green's Prize Almanac.—W. T. Brooks.

A splendid serial story begins in this issue of THE NEWS. It will pay you to peruse it.

The State Sunday-school Convention, in session at Danville, re-elected J. B. Weaver as President.

Mr. W. H. CLAY has sold his farm of about four hundred acres, near Elizabethtown, to Mr. Frank Bedford.

FRANK BURY has purchased the interest of Garrett Kenney in the meat business of Penn & Kenney.

ONE of our Bourbon county farmer's wife has already this season cleared $185 on the sale of roasting ears.

FRANK JACKS, a poor farmer of Madison county, Ala., unearthed on his farm a pot containing over $20,000 in gold.

ON account of typographical error Mr. Wyatt Thompson's excursion crowd Texas should have read three instead of thirty.

JEFFRIES and Ruhlin are matched for a championship contest, to take place in San Francisco, in November or December. Articles were signed yesterday.

A NEW COAL YARD.—J. S. WILSON & Co., the enterprising implement and seed men, have opened a coal yard on Second street, with office on Bank Row.

TYPHOID fever is alarmingly prevalent both in Winchester and Clark county, especially in the Eastern part of the city. There are thirteen cases in Kidville.

See that you get a Stoner when you call for it. Home made.

JACK WINTERS, who stole $320,000 in gold bullion from the Shelby Smelting Works was sentenced at San Francisco, to fifteen years imprisonment at Folsom.

HENRY M. FLAGLER, recently divorced from his insane wife by means of a special act of the Florida Legislature, is to marry Miss Lilly Kenan at Kennesaw, N. C., Saturday.

The 41st Shelby County Fair will be held at Shelbyville Aug. 27 and continue 4 days. True Kentucky hospitality is generously extended by the good people of Shelby county on this occasion, as many of our readers are doubtless aware.

WILLIE SWARINGEN, son of Mr. W. G. Swaringen, of this city, is a pupil of the First Presbyterian Sunday School, and is noted as the particular bright star on the roll of honor, having never missed a meeting of the school from the beginning of the year 1895 to the present time, nearly seven years.

PATRONIZE home industry and call for the Stoner cigar.

The city is having a hole drilled on each corner of Main, Pleasant and High streets in order to give the sewer contractors an idea of the average depth of solid rock. As soon as this is completed the bids will be received and contract awarded, and work will begin once on the sewer.

The wrecked steamer City of Godda was raised yesterday afternoon and towed to the Kentucky shore. The loss of life is now estimated at eighteen. Bodies were recovered yesterday. Effort was made at the coroner's next to fix the responsibility for the accident. The steamer did not capsize, the claimant claims that the engineer swayed all signals.

About twenty-five members of the same tribe, Improved Order of Red Men, went over to Georgetown Wednesday to constitute the new tribe at that place. They were entertained with supper at the Lancaster Hotel, and after the offering of the degrees a royal banquet was spread at the same hotel. The boys came back with glowing accounts of the hospitable manner in which they were treated by the Georgetown brethren. The representative was the one thing of for this tribe, and appreciated the many favors shown him and his associates.

A street car line for Paris is an unsolved puzzle. A small amount of work was done at the Midland depot this week in order to comply with the terms of the franchise. In an interview with Mr. Harry Power yesterday that gentleman showed THE NEWS man a communication from the Eastern parties who are going to build the road saying that as soon as the sewer system is completed work could be commenced at once on the street car line from the Midland depot to the Court House. On account of the narrowness of the streets it would be an impossibility to build them at once, or if the road was built the tracks would have to be torn up in order to put in the sewer.

Frankfort-Paris Road sold.

The Frankfort and Cincinnati Railroad, formerly the Kentucky Midland, having forty miles of track running from Frankfort to Paris has been sold to Eastern capitalists. It is understood that the price was $350,000.

It is announced unofficially that Mr. George Harper, the present Superintendent, will be president of the new road.

The transfer of the road was made to Charles E. Lewis, representing Eastern capitalists. The officials refuse to give out further information. The sale of the road is the subject of considerable gossip.

The same Charles E. Lewis bought the "Henderson Route" some time ago. No one seems to know whom he represents. The officials of the F. & C. are reticent about the matter, but it is thought the August Belmont purse is behind Mr. Lewis and that the F. & C. and other roads bought and to be bought by him, will be additions to the Louisville and Nashville system.

WANTED.—A good white girl or neat and reliable colored girl for nurse. White girl can sleep at house and will be given nice room. For name of party apply at this office. tf

Lexington's Scandal.

The committee appointed by the General Council of Lexington, to investigate the gambling scandal and the charge that protection money was paid, began its work in the Council Chamber yesterday. The witnesses told of the various poolroom raids made by the police and the $5,000 a year protection money, and exhibited checks of $500 each, on which the words "for protection" were written. The checks were payable to W. R. Welsh, the poolroom operator, who had agreed to close his room and combine with McLaughlin, as they claim Mayor Duncan would permit but one room to run, and had been closing McLaughlin's place.

To prove that the police knew of the running of the room during the time that it was not molested, Clerk McAllister exhibited orders for bets on horse-racing signed by Chief of Police Ross and Detectives Jenkins and Stoggh.

We are still making high grade photos Call and see the latest. Everything strictly up-to-date.

New Elks' Home.

It now seems to be an assured fact that the Elks of this city will in the near future build a handsome building which will be for their exclusive use with the possible exception of the ground floor. The committee has been given full power to act, and they are going ahead in earnest. At the last meeting of the lodge on Tuesday night last fourteen hundred dollars was subscribed and less than a third of the members were present. It is said the Ficklin property on Main street is favored by most of the members. This would be a most desirable location and would greatly improve the looks of that section of the town.

COAL.—Try our South Jellico Blue Gem or mixed cannel, they are all good. Order your Winter coal now. 19jy-tf J. S. WILSON & BRO.

Herrmann The Great To-night.

Herrmann, the Great, the famous magician, will be the attraction at the Grand Opera House to-night. To say that Herrmann is great would not begin to express it. He is superb, superlatively great, wonderful. The opportunity to see him and his splendid magical entertainment is a rare treat. There is a charm about an entertainment of this kind which attracts everybody. People who do not go to a theatre any other time in the year go to see Herrmann. Herrmann is a genius, whose distinguishing feature is the completeness of his work in every detail. From his first appearance he is in rapport with his audience, and everybody feels at home with him. Besides a grand programme of legerdemain, several sensational illusions will be presented here. A feature of the programme are the five Nosses, who constitute one of the strongest musical quintettes ever seen in this country. They play on any number of instruments, many of them novelties, with the ease and style of masters. They amply sustain the great reputations they have won as premier musical experts of this country.

The Power Grocery Company of this city are sole distributing agents for the Garth cigar. This is one of the best five cent cigars ever put on the market, and is having an enormous sale. Each box has a splendid photograph of William Garth, and the many beneficiaries of this noble man's generosity and the large membership of Garth Lodge, A. O. U. W., make it a point to call for that they are a home product, being manufactured for the Power Grocery Company by Mr. Altmeyer, of this city.

The Franklin county grand jury will take up the murder of Governor Goebel again next month. Subpoenas for a number of prominent men have been issued, among them is the name of Rev. J. S. Sweeney of this city.

Squall Overtakes the Steamer City of Golconda Near Paducah, Ky.

Several of Those on Board Jumped Into the River and Were Afterwards Picked Up By Boats and Taken Ashore.

Paducah, Ky., Aug. 20.—The steamer City of Golconda, plying between this city and Elizabethtown, Ill., was struck by a squall during a storm about 7 o'clock Monday night as she was en route to Paducah and turned over in ten feet of water, six miles above the city, as she was going into Crowell's landing. The disaster occurred as supper was served, and many of the 75 passengers were in the cabin. Capt. Jesse Bauer and Pilot E. E. Peck were the last to leave the boat and swim ashore. They saved several struggling in the water and left the survivors in a house near the bank and came to the city.

Paducah, Ky., Aug. 21.—The horror of the City of Golconda disaster at Cottonwood bar, four miles above Paducah Monday night is just beginning to be fully comprehended as body after body is brought in and taken to the undertakers. Nothing but an official investigation will satisfy them, for it seems certain that the most culpable carelessness caused the catastrophe.

A. A. Peck, the pilot, claims that the engineer deserted his post and that he could not manage the boat with the engines helpless. The engineer denies, and claims that he remained at the throttle until the water was waist deep.

Frank Enders, a passenger, corroborated by several others, declares that the effort to land brought the side of the boat around so the wind struck it full force. There had been almost a gale blowing for ten minutes, and a man went to the pilot house and begged the pilot to land. When he did finally consent to land, the hurricane, visible as a huge black streak sweeping across the river, struck the boat as it swung around in a position least able to resist it. The boat was not considered safe as a passenger boat. The government inspectors will be asked to hold an investigation at once.

Correct list of the dead: Miss Lizzie Graham, Grahamville; Miss Lucy Bennett, Smithland; Miss Trixie Grimes, Grahamville; Mrs. David Adams, Smithland; Miss May Fleming, Birdsview; Mrs. W. A. Hogan and three children, Ira, 10, Wallace 8 and Lucille 6; Mr. Watts Davis, Livingstone county; Clarence Slayden, Iola, Ky.; Wallace Bennett, Tolu, Ky.; D. Jackson (colored), Paducah; Will Woods (colored), Golconda; George Washington (colored), Golconda; Horace Bondeau (colored), Golconda; George Sandsburg (colored), Golconda.

Three bodies were recovered Tuesday forenoon, those of Miss Trixie Grimes, Miss Lucy Barnett and Mrs. David Adams. Miss Barnett's face was badly lacerated.

Tuesday afternoon the bodies of Miss Graham and Mrs. W. A. Hogan, and Lucille, her six-year-old daughter, were recovered. All the bodies were brought here and prepared for burial.

The reason the work of recovery is so slow is because the furniture is piled on the bodies. The boat is being dismantled as she lay in 18 feet of water in order that the dead may be reached. The boat's register has not been recovered, but it is certain the death list will number 18, and possibly 22.

Mrs. Charles Hayden, of Metropolis, Ill., the only woman saved, is badly bruised. When she went down she clung to her child, and both were finally saved by rowers. She was sitting on the lower guards, so she could be near her husband, who was engineer, when the boat turned over.

It was agreed that the match is to take place either in November or December, before the club offering the largest purse. The articles call for a division of the gate receipts on a basis of 75 per cent. to the winner and 25 per cent. to the loser.

LOCATION CHANGED.

The Schley Court of Inquiry Will Be Held at the Washington Navy Yard.

Washington, Aug. 20.—The navy department has finally decided that the sessions of the Schley court of inquiry will be held at the Washington navy yard. A large room in the second story of the gunners' workshop has been set aside for the purpose. It is a new building that has not been occupied. Orders have been given to have the room fitted up for the use of the court.

During a conference with Acting Secretary Hackett Monday Messrs. Raynor and Wilson, Schley's attorneys, advised him that a communication would be sent him relative to certain statements reported to have been made by R. Adm. Howison, a member of the court of inquiry, in regard to the Schley-Sampson controversy. The latter to Secretary Hackett will enclose copies of interviews purporting to have come from Adm. Howison, stating, among other things, that the battle of Santiago was won by Sampson; that the latter's presence was unnecessary at the fight; that Schley deserves no credit for the victory, and that between the two officers Sampson is the better one.

Mr. Hackett is requested to forward this communication to Adm. Howison for his consideration, and a copy of that officer's reply to the department is asked for.

BENZINE TANK EXPLODED.

Three of Four Firemen Were Killed, Many Badly Burned, Some of Whom Will Die.

Philadelphia, Aug. 20.—While a large force of firemen were endeavoring to check the fire in a nest of burning oil tanks at the Atlantic Oil Refining Co.'s plant at Point Breeze about 12:30 o'clock Tuesday morning an immense tank of benzine suddenly exploded. Many firemen were in close proximity to the tank and fell victims. Three or four were killed and many were badly burned before they could be rescued. The dead firemen were horribly burned and their bodies horribly mutilated. The bodies were hardly recognizable when brought to the morgue at 1:30 o'clock Tuesday morning. Some of the injured will die.

Ten or 12 tanks of benzine and petroleum have been destroyed and the fire has not been checked. The fire, it is thought, will not burn itself out for several days. The loss, it is estimated, will probably be $500,000.

REBELS ARE ACTIVE.

Continued and Persistent Attacks Made on the Outskirts of Colon and Panama.

Kingston, Jamaica, Aug. 20.—The British steamer Rosneal arrived here Monday from Central American ports and brought advices from Colon of continued and persistent attacks by the rebels on the outskirts of Colon and Panama. The repeated efforts on the part of the government to repulse the rebels have failed and the belief is gaining ground that the Colombian government is weakening. When the Rosneal left Colon, the 15th, the French cruiser Suet was there, and the arrival of British and American war vessels was anxiously awaited. Business was crippled.

FIVE MEN KILLED.

During a Fire in a Roundhouse Dynamite Exploded With Terrible Results.

Little Falls, N. Y., Aug. 20.—The Mohawk & Malone roundhouse at Herkimer was discovered to be on fire at 10:30 Monday. Watchman Gilbert and an engine tender named John Beck, assisted by residents of the vicinity and members of the bridge building gang, attempted to extinguish the flames. A large quantity of dynamite stored in the building exploded, killing Gilbert and Beck and four others. The bodies of the four mentioned are not recognizable. The roundhouse was wrecked and burned. It is feared that there are other bodies in the ruins.

The European Squadron.

Washington, Aug. 20.—The navy department announces that the European squadron of American war vessels will rendezvous at Genoa, Italy. The cruiser Chicago, now at Southampton, will proceed south to that port, where she will meet the cruiser Albany and the gunboat Nashville, now at Seichelle islands.

New York, Aug. 20.—A cable from London says: News from Hamburg reports King Edward looking sad and worn and as if he needed relaxation and thorough change and rest for a while.

A TOWN TERRORIZED.

Negroes Driven From Pierce City, Mo., by Whites.

The Houses of Five Blacks Were Fired By the Torch, and Dozens of Negroes Driven From the Place.

Pierce City, Mo., Aug. 20.—Will Godley, a Negro, was taken from jail and lynched by a mob composed of 1,000 armed citizens shortly after dark Monday night for the murder of Miss Caselle Wild, whose dead body was found Monday in the woods near here.

The mob threw ropes around the necks of Godley and Jean Carter, another suspect. Godley was hanged in front of the Lawrence hotel and his body riddled with bullets. Carter's guilt was not clearly established, and he was taken back to jail.

Carter has since been taken out by the mob, riddled with bullets and left dying in the street.

Pierce City, Mo., Aug. 21.—For nearly 15 hours, ending about noon Tuesday, this town of 3,000 people has been in the hands of a mob of armed whites, determined to drive every Negro from its precincts. In addition to the lynching Monday night of Will Godley, accused of the wanton murder of Miss Caselle Wild, and the shooting to death of his grandfather, French Godley, the mob Tuesday cremated Pete Hampton, an aged Negro, in his home, set the torch to the houses of five blacks, and with the aid of state militia rifles, stolen from the local company's arsenal, drove dozens of Negroes from the town. After noon the excitement died down, the mob gradually dispersing, more from lack of Negroes on which to wreak their hatred than from any other cause. Many of the Negroes who fled the city are hiding in the surrounding woods.

Every Negro has left the town except a few railway porters known to be respectable, but who must leave also. The citizens of Pierce City say that as Negroes have committed several such crimes in the last ten years, none shall live there in the future, the same feeling already existing at Monett, four miles east of Pierce City, and the end of the Frisco passenger division. It may be necessary for the road to change all porters in Springfield hereafter.

It is now believed that the man, Will Godley, lynched was not the real culprit. A Negro named Starks, under arrest at Tulsa, I. T., across the border from here, tallies exactly with the description of the murderer. He is held there awaiting identification. Unless the man is brought back here it is believed there will be no further trouble. If returned here he will surely be lynched. Another suspect, Joe Lark, is under arrest in Springfield, Mo.

Eugene Barrett, also known as Carter, in a confession while a rope was around his neck, Tuesday accused Joe Lark, a Frisco railroad porter, of being implicated in the crime, and Lark was arrested Tuesday at Springfield.

THE ALASKAN CABLE.

It Has Been Broken in Several Places and Parts of It Were Lost and Destroyed.

Washington, Aug. 21.—Col. Dunwoody, acting chief signal officer, has received a dispatch from Capt. Green, at St. Michaels, Alaska, reporting upon the conditions of the Alaskan cable between St. Michael and Nome City. It appears that this cable has been broken in several places and parts of it lost and destroyed. Capt. Green says it would be wholly inexpedient for the Government to spend money in repairing or to rent a new cable at this place.

A COLORED SOLDIER.

Found Guilty of Murder and His Punishment Fixed at Life Imprisonment.

Dallas, Tex., Aug. 21.—John Kipper was late Tuesday found guilty of murder, and his punishment fixed at confinement in the penitentiary for life. Kipper was one of the negro soldiers who were charged with being members of the party which made an attack on the El Paso county jail about a year ago, resulting in the death of one soldier and one peace officer.

A MIDNIGHT WRECK.

Several Trainmen Were Killed and Injured on the Alton Road Near Jacksonville, Ill.

Jacksonville, Ill., Aug. 21.—The Chicago and Alton fast train to Kansas City was wrecked at midnight at Prentice, a siding eight miles north of here by running into a freight. Several trainmen were killed and injured, but it is thought the passengers escaped with minor injuries.

Famine Not Feared.

Manila, Aug. 21.—The fears expressed here of a famine in Iloilo are not taken seriously by the authorities, and the offer of the Manila papers to start subscriptions has been declined.

THE BOERS' STRENGTH.

The British Authorities Place It at 11,000 Men—They Are Well Supplied With Food.

London, Aug. 21.—In a dispatch dated July 8 and detailing the condition of affairs at the front at that time, Lord Kitchener says: "There are no more than 13,500 Boers now under arms. Although they are not able to undertake extensive operations, their apparently inexhaustible supplies of food enable them to maintain an obstinate resistance without retaining anything or defending the smallest portion of this vast country."

"The wearing-down process is necessarily slow, rendering the employment of a large number of troops still necessary. Great patience is still required to see the inevitable end of an insensate resistance, which, while it can not affect the result, has become unjustifiable in prolonging the war and the sufferings of women and children."

Since this dispatch was written the losses of the Boers have brought their forces down to about 11,000.

THE WORK OF A MOB.

Alf Wilder, Colored, Charged With Murder, Burned at the Stake Near Red Ranch, Tex.

Dallas, Tex., Aug. 21.—A dispatch received Tuesday from Whitesboro, Tex., says the negro, Alf Wilder, charged with the murder of Mrs. Caldwell, the wife of a Grayson county farmer, at her home on Saturday last, was captured by a mob and burned at Nelson's ranch, two and one half miles east of Red Ranch.

The burning occurred early Tuesday night. The mob was composed of 300 men. The Negro was taken to a tree and swung up in the air. Wood and fodder were piled beneath his body and a hot fire made.

Then it was suggested that the man ought not die too quickly, and he was let down to the ground, while a party went to Dexter, about two miles distant, to procure coal oil. This was thrown on the flames and the work completed.

FOREIGN-GROWN COFFEE.

Two More Port Cities of Porto Rico Have Levied Prohibitory Taxes on the Berry.

San Juan, Porto Rico, Aug. 21.—Two more port cities have levied prohibitory taxes on foreign-grown coffee. The San Juan and Arecibo councils have passed five-cent-per-pound taxes, following the action of Mayaguez. There is serious question of the effectiveness of the action taken unless all cities join in it. Merchants are exercising vigilance against suspected importers. No man dares to openly import coffee, as it would mean his ruin by boycotting. Protests are also being made against the troops of the garrison and the local Porto Rican regiment using Brazilian coffee.

JAPANESE SILKS.

A New Invoice of 18 Cases Seized at New York By Collector George F. Bidwell.

New York, Aug. 20.—A new invoice of 18 cases of silk imported from Japan was reported to George R. Bidwell, collector of the port, by Appraiser Wakeman for seizure Monday.

With the seizure Monday the government will have taken charge of 40 cases of silk, weighing more than 10,000 pounds, and valued at more than $64,000. The duty on the silks which have already been seized will amount to more than $30,000, while under the methods carried on in the division before the frauds were discovered the importers would probably have paid only $9,000 on the lot.

CHILEAN MINISTER.

Senator Vicuña Dies in Buffalo, N. Y.—Chili's Building Is Draped in Mourning.

Buffalo, N. Y., Aug. 21.—Senator Vicuña, the Chilean minister, died Tuesday after several days' illness. Senator Vicuña's wife and sons, his private secretary, Don Eleodoro Infante, and an attaché of the Chilean legation at Washington were at his bedside when he died. The body was prepared Tuesday for shipment to Chili. When the news of the minister's death was received at the exposition grounds, Chili's building was at once closed and draped in mourning.

The Stories Exaggerated.

New York, Aug. 21.—The officers and passengers of the steamer Orizgo, which arrived from Colon Tuesday, said that the reports of trouble between Venezuela and Colombia were greatly exaggerated. "We neither saw nor heard anything of any trouble while in the harbor," said Capt. Smith.

Battleship Iowa Sails.

Washington, Aug. 21.—The navy department has been informed of the sailing of the battleship Iowa for Panama. She will stop at Acapulco for coal. The distance from San Francisco to Panama is 3,274 miles and the trip will occupy about 11 days.

Battleship Indiana.

Newport News, Va., Aug. 21.—The battleship Indiana, of the North Atlantic squadron, arrived in Hampton Roads at 3 o'clock Tuesday after noon.

Arms and the Lady.

"Isn't it marvelous!" said the young man as they stood looking at the armless wonder. "He can feed himself without hands; he can write his name; he can thread a needle; he can paint a picture, and he can whistle."

The girl drew a long sigh and said: "Yes, it is astonishing!"

"See, he is going to play the piano with his toes. Why, that man doesn't need arms. Of what use would they be to him if he had them?"

"Well," she said, rather low, so that the crowd couldn't hear, "they might come in handy if he were out calling, and it was along about nine or ten o'clock, and the lights were turned down, and—"

But the master of ceremonies called out: "Now, ladies and gentlemen, if you will just step this way," and there was a rush in which she and her companion were swept down to where the man with the rubber skin was beginning his interesting and instructive performance.—Chicago Record-Herald.

Friendship's Tribute.

The man at whose funeral they were assembled hadn't drawn a sober breath during the last 15 years of his life, and had been noted for always being in trouble with his neighbors. "Well," said one of his old acquaintances, turning sadly away after the services were over, "he was a man of mighty regular habits."—Chicago Tribune.

SHAFFER'S SCHEME.

He Has a Plan to Bring the Steel Strike to a Close.

Just How This Is to Be Accomplished Is a Mystery—There Was No Attempt to Start the Mills Wednesday.

Pittsburg, Pa., Aug. 22.—President Theodore J. Shaffer, of the Amalgamated association, said Wednesday night that he has well defined plans for bringing the great strike to a close. This is to be done by bringing about such a crisis in the differences between the steel corporation and the Amalgamated association as will force a settlement. Just how all this is to be accomplished is a mystery, but it will not be by arbitration or litigation.

In answers to the questions about the numerous stories going the rounds of mediation or arbitration, Mr. Shaffer dismissed all by saying: "We have not heard from the other side; we have not placed anything before them and I know of nobody acting for either side or any side."

"We are not hunting for arbitration. Arbitration representing both sides might be worse than the strike itself. Two willing champions, one for either side, might have a worse fight in choosing a third party and in settling the differences than we in the continuation of the strike."

"I have told the other side that personally, I would consent for disinterested arbitration, in the hands of such public men as Archbishop Ireland, Bishop Potter and Seth Low, although, as I did not as an officer of the association, suggest such a move, I was willing to advise it."

There was no extension of the strike Wednesday, and the steel managers did not attempt to start any more mills. Late in the day, the fires were lighted in the Demmler tin plate works at McKeesport, but the machinery was not started and no attempt was made to operate the plant.

It is believed, however, that the move is preliminary to a start with non-union men. The managers of the company have been preparing for several days to reopen a number of their properties and it is thought that they have decided to act at once. Their Monessen plant is moving ahead uninterruptedly with full crews and their Crescent works at Cleveland has about half the machines in operation. There has been no break in the Carnegie group and the mills that have been started with non-union men since the strike began are going ahead with about the same force of men.

Seven strikers were arrested near the gates of the Pennsylvania Tube works in Soho. When the whistle blew at 5:30 a crowd of about 1,500 gathered to give a warm reception to any workers who might come from the mill. None came, but the crowd became noisy, and the large force of policemen on hand ran the leaders (all foreigners) into the mill and called for the patrol. American Federation officials offered bail for the prisoners who are charged with disorderly conduct, but the magistrate refused to accept it.

MRS. GOV. BECKHAM ILL.

Dr. A. H. Cartledge Expressed Himself as By No Means Hopeful of the Outcome.

Frankfort, Ky., Aug. 22.—At 8 o'clock Wednesday night the physicians attending Mrs. Beckham gave out the following bulletin: Mrs. Beckham is alarmingly ill; her temperature was 106°, pulse 130 at 1 p. m. Septicemia complicated with nephritis is the cause of her illness. Her condition shows a little improvement at 8 p. m.

Mrs. Beckham is fighting hard. Never once has she lost consciousness, or ceased to trying by smiles and jests to dispel the gloom caused by her illness. The members of her family arrived from Owensboro Wednesday night on a special train. Her mother has been with her all day. Dr. A. M. Cartledge expressed himself as by no means hopeful of the outcome. The physicians, however, put great dependence upon her strong vital and will power.

At midnight the doctors in attendance on Mrs. Beckham stated that her condition was more favorable than at any time during the day. Her temperature was 102½, and her pulse 110.

MET WITH SHOTGUNS.

Attempt to Serve Warrants on the Management of the Delmar Track Resisted.

St. Louis, Aug. 22.—An attempt on the part of a posse of constables to serve warrants on the management of the Delmar track and the bookmakers doing business thereon, was frustrated Wednesday by Sheriff B. C. Hencken and his deputies, who repulsed the posse with shotguns. Warrants had been sworn out at St. Ferdinand township, near Kinlock Park, before Justice Baker, charging the defendants with keeping a common gambling house. Thirty-three warrants were drawn in all. These were placed in the hands of constables, nearly 40 being in the posse.

At 2 o'clock the posse set out for Delmar. Word was conveyed to the track and the sheriff and his deputies, armed with repeating shotguns, stood themselves near the gate. At the approach of the posse, the sheriff walked into the betting ring and placed all the bookmakers and the management of the track under arrest on a charge of violating the breeders' law. Betting was immediately suspended at all the books.

When the posse approached, the sheriff ordered its members to keep out of the track.

The sheriff had but seven deputies, but these were all armed and the posse withdrew, seeing that attempts to force an entrance might be met with loss of life. Constable Linhard remained outside after his posse had departed, and was allowed to enter the grounds. He was unable to serve his warrants on the sheriff's prisoners, however, discovering that he had left the documents in the care of a member of the posse. When he withdrew Sheriff Hencken released his prisoners and betting proceeded as usual.

C. A. Tilles gave bond Wednesday morning before Judge Clark for the 32 bookmakers for whom warrants were issued in the city Tuesday, while President Adler signed Mr. Tilles' bond. The bonds provide for their appearance at any time before Judge Clark. Their trials will occur early in September.

As a sequel to Wednesday's trouble at Delmar Park, Joseph Graham was shot and probably fatally wounded at 11 o'clock Wednesday night by a party of men headed by John Williams. Graham acted as deputy sheriff at the track Wednesday and the men who attacked him were members of Constable Linhard's posse which failed in its attempt to raid the track.

FRANCE AND TURKEY.

Diplomatic Relations Between the Two Countries Broken By the French Minister.

Paris, Aug. 22.—The foreign office says that M. Constans, French ambassador to Turkey, has broken personally with the sultan, but will give the port a last chance before officially suspending relations between the two countries. France does not wish war, but if the sultan persists in his refusal to settle French demands, a French fleet may be sent to seize an Ottoman port and retain the customs fees until the amount demanded is covered.

London, Aug. 22.—The morning papers Thursday, commenting upon the Franco-Turkey situation, consider that the action of M. Constans was fully justified. They do not anticipate any serious occurrences, believing that the sultan will ultimately yield.

Paris, Aug. 22.—The Matin Thursday morning announces that the French second-class cruiser Cassard started for Turkish waters Wednesday and that a naval division is ready to follow.

NICARAGUA AT PEACE.

No Truth in the Report That Gen. Alban and Others Organized an Expedition Against Her.

Mangua, Nicaragua, Aug. 22.—(Via Galveston)—Nothing is known here that would justify the report, circulated in the United States, that Gen. Alban, governor of Panama, Manuel Calderon and others had organized an expedition against Nicaragua and that information regarding the movement had reached President Zelaya.

Nicaragua is in a state of profound peace and President Zelaya is taking a vacation in Granada.

DROWNED IN A TUNNEL.

Five Laborers Strangled to Death in Hole No. 3 of the Cleveland Water Crib.

Cleveland, O., Aug. 22.—Five more unfortunate crib laborers were strangled in death hole No. 3, as the result of an explosion at 8 o'clock Tuesday night. Two others were blown out of the shaft, and 25 more spent the night in a vain attempt to get help from shore. This makes 15 lives that Cleveland's water tunnel has claimed within a week.

At 8 o'clock there came a muffled roar from below, followed by another, louder and sharper. The horror-stricken men on top saw parts of the great steel shaft rise out of the lake and heard the water rush in. They heard the screams of comrades down below, quickly smothered into faint, inarticulate gurgles by the irresistible torrent of water.

A moment later they found two of the men who had been in the middle lock lying unconscious on the crib. They had been blown straight out of the shaft and were, by some strange freak of Providence, almost uninjured.

The steady rush of water into the awful pit below told too plainly the fearful death that was the fate of those poor chaps left below.

Rough signals were improvised to attract help from the city, and the whistles, used in calling the workmen in and out, shrieked all night in vain. Not until Wednesday morning was the signal answered when Manager Brogan, of the Great Lakes Towing Co., sent out the city officials and Dr. Lucas, on one of his tugs at 8 a. m.

The fire boat Cleveland also went out.

Crib No. 3 is the permanent intake crib. Its position is altogether different from that of the temporary cribs. Far below the water line at crib No. 3 several intake pipes pierce the solid concrete which forms the sides of the crib. Through these intakes, when the tunnel is finished, the water will enter it. The inner openings of the intake run into the well in which the shaft has been built. These openings were protected by heavy casing. The explosion destroyed this casing, and the water of the lake poured in.

The shaft can not be pumped out until the outer openings of the intake are closed. To do this it may be necessary to build a coffer dam around the crib, a work of weeks, before the bodies can be recovered.

As to the cause of the explosion, the most plausible theory yet advanced, is that, in lowering a heavy steel rib to the bottom of the shaft, an electric light wire was cut, causing a spark which ignited the gas in the tunnel.

Mayor Johnson has sent to Milwaukee for a civil engineer to come and take charge of further work on the construction of the tunnel.

Judge Dellenbaugh, of the common pleas court, has summoned the grand jury to meet Thursday to inquire into the disaster and place the responsibility.

ADMITTED HIS GUILT.

His crime was criminal assault on Miss Lena Keith. He slipped upon his victim while she slept and broke a chair over her head and then tried to cut her throat. The Negro admitted his guilt.

The Keiths are prominent people and as soon as the crime became known the entire community started in the search. The Negro was found within a few hours after the crime.

IN A LIVING TOMB.

Two Victims of the Cleveland Water Crib Horror Rescued From a Horrible Death.

Cleveland, Aug. 20.—Adam Kest and Joseph Eughe, two of a dozen or more workmen who were trapped in the water works tunnel 200 feet below the surface of Lake Erie by the burning of crib No. 2 last Wednesday morning, were rescued from their horrible position late Monday afternoon and are now lying semi-conscious at Huron Street hospital, where, with careful nursing, the physicians say, they will soon recover their former strength, and probably be none the worse for their experience.

Shut off from the upper world, the men knew nothing of the catastrophe that killed so many of their comrades and imprisoned them.

When their signal for help, tapped on the air pipe, was at last answered from the crib, Kest and Eughe were preparing to eat raw mule meat.

At the hospital Monday night Eughe and Kest related some of their experiences. They said that they did not know that there had been a fire, and they could not account for their plight, unless some accident had happened which would soon be repaired. As the time passed by, however, and hours lengthened into days, the men were beginning to fear that they were doomed to death either by starvation, suffocation or drowning. Their tapping on the pipe to attract possible attention was done with little hope of its being heard, but fortune favored them, and their presence was realized when a number of men, who were at work repairing the burned crib, heard the faint noise away down underground and immediately set out to rescue the unfortunate.

"We gave up more than once," said Kest. "We lost track of time. I did not know whether it was six days or three. The gas must have made us sleepy. We slept a lot I know. We did not know whether it was day or night down there."

"We tried to get out several times. Each time the gas drove us back. At last we decided that it was getting out or die, and we made a try, tapping on the pipe as we went along."

According to the story of these men the first intimation Eughe and Kest had of the fatal Wednesday morning, which saw the crib burned, was the shutting off of the lights. The two men were working far in advance of the gang, and when the latter made their rush for safety Kest and Eughe were sitting down behind the air lock waiting for the lights to be turned on again. They did not hear the shouts and cries of their fellow prisoners.

A HEAVY LOSS.

The Immense Plant of the American Cigar Co., at Richmond, Va., Destroyed By Fire.

Richmond, Va., Aug. 20.—Fire destroyed what is locally known as the J. Wright Co. plant of the American Cigar Co. here Monday. There were about 400,000 pounds of leaf tobacco in the building owned by the American Cigar Co., and this, with the machinery it is estimated, was worth $115,000.

The building, an immense structure covering 19,200 square feet, was owned by the Continental Tobacco Co. It was five stories high, built entirely of brick. A conservative estimate of its value is given as $60,000. It was completely destroyed. The total loss is placed at about $200,000; insurance $112,000.

RUSSIAN BARK NEPTUNE.

It Is Feared the Vessel Was Lost in the Recent Storm—Wreckage Picked Up.

Pensacola, Fla., Aug. 20.—It is feared that the Russian bark Neptune, Capt. Zattkoff, which sailed from here August 10 for Montevideo, was lost in the recent storm. The foundation for this fear is the fact that pieces of the stern of a vessel with the name "Neptune" were picked up Monday on the outer beach of Santa Rosa island, several miles out. Wm. Idmixon, ex-pilot, of this city, was a passenger on the Neptune.

SULTAN OF MOROCCO.

He Likes Bicycles and Other European and American Inventions of Every Description.

The sultan of Morocco, Abdul Aziz, whose embassy to King Edward recently reached London, is a young man, and in spite of the seclusion in which he has been brought up, is well informed, as information goes, in his part of the world. He has no education of the western kind, but according to a writer in the London Daily Mail, is exceedingly interested in London, and would give anything he possesses to be able to spend a short time in the world's metropolises.

He is exceedingly fond of western toys, and has a bicycle which he rides easily and from which he appears to derive great pleasure. His latest hobby is photography, and he has learned to focus properly, to judge distance and even develop and print.

The cinematograph has found its way to the far-off Moorish court. Nothing that Europe or America has since invented has given the sultan more pleasure than the cinematograph. He has had films of nearly every pageant and principal event that has taken place since the process was discovered revealed before him, and has gone into ecstasies of delight over them. The pictures of the late queen's diamond jubilee procession interested him perhaps more keenly than anything else. At those he is never tired of looking.

It is these things more than anything else that have aroused in him a passionate desire to visit London. He longs to get away from the dull monotony of his court and to see the wonders of the western world. But he knows that under the present regime it is impossible. His preference for articles of American and English manufacture is marked, and his ideas along this line are said to have caused great uneasiness among the French, who insist on trying to gain his favor.

SAILS ON BICYCLES.

A South African Sport Which Has Been Introduced Into England with Great Success.

Sails have been used on boats since time immemorial. They have been used on wagons by parties crossing great stretches of open country, they have been used by skaters, and a terrific rate of speed thus secured, but it has remained for two men in Africa to use sails on their bicycles. The man who first tried this combination is T. G. Smith, a citizen of Bloemfontein. He first used a very small sail, which he fastened to his bicycle by means of a strip of wood projecting in front of the handle bars. This he found to be satisfactory, and he strengthened the support by projecting the lines of his bicycle frame until they met at an acute angle a foot or more in front of the machine, between the handle bar and the front wheel. The base of this angle was formed by the short front strip of the frame into which the handle bar fits. At the point of the angle where the two projections joined he placed his sail, a short mast supporting the small balloon sail.

When Mr. Smith had proved the practicability and charm of bicycle sailing his friends and neighbors took it up and enlarged upon his idea, making their sails to suit their fancy and convenience. So popular has this form of sport become just before the outbreak of the English-Boer war that the sailors were known as the Free State navy and every day found them out in squadrons maneuvering in elaborate array.

It is now announced that the sport will be taken up in England, where bicycling is the rage, and there is no reason why American boys and girls should not find it good fun. A small sail should be used by the beginner, as there is danger that the machine may become uncontrollable with too expansive a canvas.

Where to Carry a Camera.

The best method of carrying a camera is a never failing source of debate among wheelmen who like to take photographs while on their summer tours. Almost every part of the bicycle where a camera can be placed has been recommended. A careful study of the question by the entire membership of a large photographic society resulted in the unanimous opinion that there is but one place to carry a kodak on a wheel, and that is on the rear fork of the machine directly under the saddle; the proper place for the tripod being along the upper tube of the frame. Many attempts have been made to carry the camera on the head of the machine or attached to the handle bars. This has two serious disadvantages—the vibration is the greatest at this point, and too much of a load carried on the head throws the bicycle out of balance and causes difficulty in steering.

THE MOTOR VEHICLE.

English Expert Says Its Advantages Over Horses Are Too Great to Be Ignored Longer.

Hon. Charles Rolls, one of the foremost automobilists in England, recently delivered a lecture in London concerning the advantage of the motor car over horses. The principal advantages, he explained, were less wear and tear upon the roads, better steering, more room for traffic, owing to the small amount of space the motor car occupies, and cheaper transportation. A ton of goods can be transported in England for 40 miles for less than $1.50. He also anticipated that the more universal utilization of motor vehicles would result in an improvement of the breed of horses, since several horses would be relieved from traction for which they were neither suited nor intended by nature. For military purposes the motor car was vastly superior in the transport department. This fact was shown in the present war in South Africa. There was one machine plying between Commando Nek and Pretoria, a distance of about 26 miles, which accomplished the work for $18 that had previous to its introduction cost $1,200, and also did the same amount of work that 900 team oxen could perform, and did not require replacing every six weeks, as was the case with animals. The introduction of motors for transport purposes in war would be much more economical, as this instance proves, besides obviating a tremendous amount of awful suffering on the part of dumb animals.

THE BIGGEST BICYCLE.

It Is a Unique Piece of Machinery. Constructed Especially for Exhibition Purposes.

Karl Jatho, the famous German trick bicycle rider, has invented a new bicycle upon which he and his sister have already given a number of performances in public. The gigantic machine has two wheels, of which the drive wheel has a diameter of about 8½ feet, while the other, which is in front, is of ordinary size. The framework of the large bicycle is so arranged that it supports two seats, one on each side of the drive wheel. The latter is turned by a double system of driving gear worked by pedals on each side of the large wheel. Each rider is supplied with a steering rod with handle bars, which work in sympathy with one another. At every revolution the drive wheel covers a distance of about 25 feet. The tire of the drive wheel, which is the largest in the world, was made to order.

Rome Is Automobile Mad.

Automobiling in Rome has assumed the condition of a veritable craze, although the way it is carried on in the Italian city makes it appear that there is no sport quite so dangerous to life and limb. It makes the onlookers' blood run cold to see a motor car go whizzing by in a little street so narrow that there is no sidewalk, or passing the opening of a side street full of cabs and bicycles, with no more apparent caution than if in the open country. There have been several bad accidents, but they have no appreciable effect on either driver or the public. The post office has taken up the self-propelled vehicles and will use them for the carriage of letters—that is, to convey the postman to distant points, and in this way it is expected that the delivery will be much more expeditious. An additional impetus was given to the craze by the recent visit to Rome of about 50 motor cars on their way south. To the great joy of the local manufacturers, all bore witness to the fact that the Italian vehicles are the strongest and most satisfactory for long trips, being light, durable and comfortable.

Autos in Wheat Fields.

In the immense California wheat fields the modern steam automobiles have cheapened the cost of harvesting wheat so that the grain can be raised there at less actual cost than in the Argentine republic, where farm labor may be hired for only a fraction of a dollar per day. These large autos of the California wheat fields are of 50 horse-power and are provided with driving wheels 60 inches in diameter. They are made to do the plowing, planting and harvesting at the proper season. In the spring they drag across the immense wheat fields 16 ten-inch plows, four six-foot harrows and a press drill for planting the seed wheat. In this way one such machine performs the triple work of plowing, harrowing and planting all in one operation.

SORES AND ULCERS.

Sores and Ulcers never become chronic unless the blood is in poor condition—is sluggish, weak and unable to throw off the poisons that accumulate in it. The system must be relieved of the unhealthy matter through the sore, and great danger to life would follow should it heal before the blood has been made pure and healthy and all impurities eliminated from the system. S.S.S. begins the cure by first cleansing and invigorating the blood, building up the general health and removing from the system A CONSTANT DRAIN all morbid effluvia.

UPON THE SYSTEM. When this has been accomplished the discharge gradually ceases, and the sore or ulcer heals. It is the tendency of these old indolent sores to grow worse and worse and eventually to destroy the bones. Local applications, while soothing and to some extent alleviate pain, cannot reach the seat of the trouble. S. S. S. does, and no matter how apparently hopeless your condition, even though your constitution has broken down, it will bring relief when nothing else can. It supplies the rich, pure blood necessary to heal the sore and nourish the debilitated, diseased body.

Mr. J. B. Talbert, Lock Box 245, Winona, Minn., says: "Six years ago my leg from the knee to the foot was one solid sore. Several physicians treated me and I made two trips to Hot Springs, but found no relief. I was induced to try S. S. S., and it made a complete cure. I have been a perfectly well man ever since."

SSS is the only purely vegetable blood purifier known—contains no poisonous minerals to ruin the digestion and add to, rather than relieve your sufferings. If your flesh does not heal readily when scratched, bruised or cut, your blood is in bad condition, and any ordinary sore is apt to become chronic.

Send for our free book and write our physicians about your case. We make no charge for this service.
